The Baylor Engineering & Computing Summer Academy (BECSA) is for students rising to 10th through 12th grade. In this one-week day camp, students explore concepts related to ENERGY through engineering, computational thinking and computer programming. All students receive hands-on, interactive instruction from Baylor faculty and support from student leaders and staff. The camp also includes a campus tour, college and career speaker, and other fun activities. This camp is NOT for high school or college credit.
